

DAILY DEMOCRAT.

TUESDAY ..... AUGUST 10, 1858.

LEADING MATTER ON EVERY PAGE

Jeffersonville Railroad.

On and after Monday, July 12, 1858, trains on the Jeffersonville Railroad will leave Jeffersonville, opposite Louisville, at 6:30 A. M., 10:50 A. M., and 10 P. M., daily, Sundays excepted.

Close connections made by the 10:50 A. M. and 10 P. M. trains at Seymour, with trains on the Ohio and Mississippi R. R., for St. Louis, Mount City, Cairo, Jefferson City, Kansas, Quincy, and Keokuk.

The 6:30 A. M. and 10 P. M. trains run through to Indianapolis, and form close connections with trains on the Terra Haute, Lafayette, Peru, Beloit, and Indiana Central Railroads, for all the principal cities in the East, West, and North.

The 6:30 A. M., 10:50 A. M. and 10 P. M. trains connect at Seymour with trains on the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad for Cincinnati.

The 10 P. M. train on Saturdays only goes to Seymour, where connections are made for Cincinnati and St. Louis.

One train on Sunday, at 10 P. M., running through to Indianapolis, connecting at Seymour for St. Louis and Cairo, also Cincinnati and the East, and for Indianapolis for the principal cities East, West, and North.

Only one change of cars between Louisville and Cincinnati, St. Louis or Chicago.

Baggage checked to all the principal cities. All changes of cars made by trains running into the same depots, thereby avoiding unnecessary omnibus rides incidental to other routes leading from Louisville to the West and Northwest. Time as quick and fare as low by any other route.

Through tickets and further information given at the Company's Office, No. 527 southeast corner of Main and Third streets, Louisville, Ky., or at the depot in Jeffersonville.

A Street Character.

We were indulging in a cigar meditation, on Saturday evening, when our attention was arrested by a deep, sonorous voice, on the corner of Third and Market streets. We instantly recognized a street character, whose occupation is to exhibit to the curious a few European views by the light of a tallow candle. "Ere, gentlemen, you have that astonishing view of Naples, in Seelye. It is a lawge and important seaport in the interor of Italy. Contiguous to the right your attention is arrested by the volcanic eruption of Mount Vesuvius. On the left, you will be kind enough to observe that extraordinary piece of Nature's handwork called Etna."

"The next view I have the honor of introducing to you is the city of Venus. It is a lawge and important bathing establishment on the coast of Italy. You will observe a gentleman in a blue coat, promenading with a lady in a yellow pelisse, on the beach, ostensibly for the purpose of enjoying the sea breeze.

"The next view, as your geographical knowledge will dictate, is 'Napoleon crossing the Alps.' On the extreme left is the battle of Waterloo, and in the rear the assault on the Redan, by the allied forces of Sebastopol. This picture alone is worth the insignificant half dime."

"And now comes the succeeding picture, representing a Council of War, previous to the Koosin war. Queen Victoria is sitting on the throne of England, with Louis Napoleon on her right, and the gentleman with his arm in a sling—Lord Raglan, I believe—on the left.

"Several other important personages figure in front; and in the distance, you will observe many things which will take too much of my valuable time to explain."

"Next, you will find, gentlemen, that wonderful exploit of the English—I say—I—the battle of Inkermann. Notwithstanding an overwhelming majority of Rosians, the indomitable British prove successful. A warrior in front has inserted his sabre in the breast of the enemy, while a large number of the French army are, no doubt, doing deeds of daring, which are not represented in this picture."

"The next, gentlemen, is a view of that interesting country, Greece. The landscape, you will observe, is filled with ancient specimens of ruins. Mark that sunset, gentlemen—gorgeous in the extreme, isn't it?"

"After a few more views the exhibition closed, with 'only five cents, gentlemen—thank you. Now, then, community, walk up—only half a dime!'

Mysterious Shooting Affair.—Yesterday evening, between eight and nine o'clock, Mr. Philip Judge, of the Louisville Hotel, was walking in Sixth street, between Main and Market, when about opposite the west end of the Exchange Hotel, some unknown person coming behind him, shot at him, the ball lodging in the flesh of the thigh; and as he fled to see his assailant, he received a seal and ball in the left arm, just below the elbow.

"Neither would, we are glad to learn, appear dangerous. Mr. Judge was unable, we hold, to distinguish who his enemy was. Mr. Preston, Bull, who was formerly clerk in the Louisville Hotel, and now in the National, was last night arrested on suspicion. He vehemently denies the accusation. We presume the affair will undergo an examination this morning."

Writ of mandamus.—A writ of mandamus has been issued from the Circuit Court, at the instance of the attorneys of Thomas Batman. A majority of the legal voters of Louisville and Jefferson county, Ky., declared Mr. Batman their choice for Jailer over Wm. K. Thomas.

Two magistrates having unlawfully given a certificate of election to Mr. Thomas, notwithstanding a majority of votes were cast for Mr. Batman, a writ of mandamus has been issued, and the case will be tried before Judge Muir.

A mandamus is that which is issued where no specific remedy is established by law, and is introduced in the courts to prevent disorders from a failure of justice.

House-keepers' Emporium.

Mr. W. S. Knott has just opened an establishment on Fourth street, under the National Hotel, that Louisville has long felt the want of—a house-keepers' emporium. Such an establishment, where the every want of house-keepers can be supplied—from the full rich plated tea sets, down to the daintiest cups—is an accession to the trade of the city that will be duly appreciated. In the complete assortment of goods embraced in the stock of this house, are a thousand articles we could not enumerate, but which are necessary to fill the wants of the trade. The stock is entirely new and purchased from the best eastern markets. We take pleasure in directing the attention of those wishing any article in the house-furnishing line to Mr. K's establishment. He is a gentleman of large business experience, and cannot fail to suit his customers.

Go in Lemons, if You do get SQUEEZED.—Messrs. S. H. Henry & Co. request us to say that just before they commence their sale of dry goods this morning, they will sell at auction 40 bxs lemons. The attention of fruit dealers is requested, as they are a choice lot of lemons.

Financial.

MONDAY, August 9.

The past week has been characterized by extreme dullness in nearly all departments of trade, while in money there has been almost nothing done. We have no changes to note in rates of exchange or discount upon foreign paper, and our quotations are the same as last week:

	Buying.	Selling.
Exchange on New York	1/2 prem.	1/2 prem.
Exchange on Philadelphia	1/2 prem.	1/2 prem.
Exchange on Baltimore	1/2 prem.	1/2 prem.
Exchange on Cincinnati	1/2 prem.	1/2 prem.

The New York Times, of the 6th instant, says:

The market for money was very quiet to-day. The demand continues comparatively moderate, and neither upward nor downward movement. The preparations for the new loan, appear to effect the very moderate rate of interest with which have ruled for the last month. The loan of £1,000,000,000, will be sufficient cause for a loan of £1,000,000,000, to be made at 5 per cent. The London 5 francs 12½ centimes on Paris, only two months ago, were at 6 per cent. The market for the new loan is likely to come up again this afternoon. The weather is still favorable, and will probably be continuing throughout the day. The market will be open again this afternoon, at 1 P.M.

Gatton gave the lines to Kane, and commanded him to go to his room. Kane did so, and when he entered the room, he found Gatton leaning over him, holding his pistol in his hand, while he took his seat in the buggy; at which time they started home. Gatton had leveled his pistol at him, but had not fired it at him. Gatton quickly got up, but before Kane had leveled his pistol at him. The load was not quite full, but he had three cartridges in his pocket, and he shot him with his pistol with each barrel well charged.

This circumstantial narrative of the affair is not made out of any facts, and appears to be of the city price widely different from the facts of

The Philadelphia Ledger, of the same date, says:

In minor matters there is the same inaction that has characterized the market for several months, there being no enterprise about to be taken for the employment of more capital. In land sales, however, there will be an increase at 4 per cent, and in aluminum, where repayment is certain at 5 per cent. The unseasoned bills. Suspended paper is occasionally on the market, but it is not received with much favor, and is sold at 4 per cent discount, and much of it not at all at any rate.
